

In New Jersey, one now have peace at the end of the day when returning from work. There is no need to answer a multitude of phone calls from telemarketers during dinner hour and relaxing evening time. I personally had made it a practice to not purchase any item from someone who had the disrespect and the audacity to call my home at night. The telemarketers would also use a company that I had business with as a means to have me listen to their pitch when, in fact, they were calling for another company. I thank our New Jersey legislatures for finally creating a law that allows people to have freedom in their homes. Please do not relax the law federally or I will be forced to give up my home phone.
